

Cosmetic Bootcamp Announces Resident Scholarships

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 28 /PRNewswire/ -- The Cosmetic Bootcamp LLC, the leading training program for specialty trained esthetic physicians and extenders, is pleased to announced reduced tuition scholarships for residents. These reduced tuitions are available for any resident in dermatology, plastic surgery, ophthalmology, oculoplastic surgery, otorhinolaryngology and facial plastic surgery. Despite adverse economic conditions, the sponsors for the meeting have generously invested in education for the physicians that represent the core for their business. These companies represent the leadership in the fields and they include: Allergan (AGN), Bioform (BRFM), Johnson and Johnson (JNJ), Medicis (MRX), Stiefel, Mentor (MNT), Procter and Gamble (PG), Lumenis , Sanofi Aventis (SA), Neocutis, Eleme and Solta (SLTM).

According to Gary Monheit MD, program director for the Cosmetic Bootcamp 2009, "It is to their credit that these companies have chosen to take a stand now, in the midst of an economic downturn, and support the education of physicians and we, as a teaching organization, want to recognize them."

The Cosmetic Bootcamp 2009 will be June 3-7th at the St Regis Hotel in Aspen, CO.
